Kelsterbach, 3 October 2011 – Summer 2012 will see Condor extending its routes to North America by more than 30% as well as adding two new destinations to its network: new services feature Toronto in Canada as well as Baltimore-Washington on the US east coast with bi-weekly flights to both destinations. Condor is also offering its customers more flexibility when planning holidays by adding an extra flight to Las Vegas, Seattle and Vancouver each week. All of these routes will be serviced non-stop from Frankfurt.

"By adding these flights, we are reacting to the increased demand for flights to North America during the summer", claims Achim Lameyer, Vice President Passenger Sales at Condor. "The new destinations supplement our current flight network across the North Atlantic create a larger variety of destinations for Condor passengers. Toronto is one of the most beautiful cities in North America and complements Condor's diversified programme." Toronto was last serviced by Condor in summer 2006 while Baltimore-Washington was integrated in the Condor network for the first time in July.

"We are pleased to welcome Condor to Toronto Pearson and it's great that our guests will now have additional choice in service when flying to Frankfurt. This new service is one more example of the importance of Toronto Pearson as a hub airport, connecting people from various points of the world whether they are travelling for business or pleasure", said Pamela Griffith-Jones, Chief Marketing and Commercial Officer for the Greater Toronto Airports Authority.
